LIVESTOCK, CROPS DECREASE IN RUSSIA; BALTICS' INCREASE

Rugged Individualism Practiced in the Baltic States

1,000,000 ACQUIRE LAND

Individualist Farmers of Russia Sent to Siberia for Penal Labor

(Note: In Lithuania, formerly part of Soviet Russia, individualism is the population's keynote. H. R. Knickerbocker tells in the ninth article of his latest series.)

KOVNO, Lithuania, May 22—(INS)—Individuals are rugged in the Baltics and nobody laughs at rugged individualism. In Communist Russia, just across the border, they sent their rugged individualist farmers to Siberia to penal labor, at least 5,000,000 of them.

In Capitalist Lithuania, Latvia and Estonia they fostered and rewarded their rugged individualist farmers and have helped at least 1,000,000 of them acquire land since the war.

So, for many years, crops and livestock decreased in the Soviet Union, but crops and livestock in the Baltic states have steadily increased. Peasants have less than they used to in Russia. They have more than they used to in the Baltics.

Jonas Ambrozevicius, of the Lithuanian village of Veiveriai, 20 miles off of Kovno, is a living example of the difference between this part of old Russia and that part which is now the Soviet Union. Jonas would be a Kulak if he lived across the border. A Kulak is a rugged individualist. He is a farmer who has worked hard enough to accumulate a few horses, a few cows.

Kulaks were considered dangerous to the Communist state because, having worked harder, they enjoyed a standard living higher than the average. The collective farms could not expect to have a standard of living higher at the beginning than the average of its members. Therefore the Kulaks could not be expected to enjoy or support the collectives. Therefore they were taken from their farms and sent to remote places.

Jonas would certainly be living in a remote place if the Bolsheviks came to Lithuania. Jonas' story is an epic of the sort of personal endeavor that keeps the capitalist system on its feet in the days of its tribulation. It is a story that was repeated a million times on a million farms from Finland down to Poland and it explains why this part of the world will not go Communist from the inside.

Jonas is 54 years old today and when he returned from the wars in 1920 to his little farm of 50 acres he found every stick burned down to the ground. Not so much as a hen-house remained.

He went to work. He and his wife worked for 15 years. They did not have a cent of cash and have never had a cent of credit. Today Jonas by the sweat of his brow and the muscle of his arms has created, and owns the wealth to make him a respected man here, a criminal in Russia.

He has a five-room house. In their stocking feet, careful of the floors, he and his wife showed it to us. Neat, clean, well furnished, it would be a credit to any American farmer. In its pantry hung a dozen sides of salt meat.

He has 6 horses, 9 cows, 25 pigs, 4 sheep and 30 chickens.

The livestock live in 2 large, well-made barns, built mostly by Jonas' own hands. Next to that is a spacious hay-barn stacked high with fragrant hay. Next to that is a granary with piles of golden wheat and red-brown rye, light yellow oats and green dried peas.

Jonas, his wife and two children eat as well as many American farmers, incomparably better than any Russian farmer. They had for breakfast eggs, coffee, bread and buttermilk; in mid-afternoon they had tea, bread, butter and cheese; for supper, cream of wheat with milk and cream. The

CHOOSE OFFICERS FOR THE ANDALUSIA P. T. A.

To Award Prize to Student in Each Grade With The Highest Average

HARMONICA CONCERT

ANDALUSIA, May 22—The last meeting of this year of the Andalusia Parent-Teacher Association was held in the schoolhouse Monday evening, H. Bowers Peters in charge. Miss Mae Early read minutes of the April meeting. Miss Pyle, chairman of the card party, reported that $54 was cleared. The annual band concert and art exhibition was announced for May 24th. The concert is given by the students of Bensalem Township high school.

The Bucks County council will hold its annual picnic at Washington Crossing on Saturday afternoon, May 25th, at 1.45 p. m. Miss Rae Komenarski gave a short talk on the picnic. It was voted that a prize be given to each grade for the student with the highest average for the year.

A committee was appointed to investigate conditions for the Andalusia P. T. A. project. It was named "welfare of the children" committee which will learn if any of the children are in need of glasses, dental care, etc. Committee members appointed: Miss Margaret Pyle, Mrs. Edward Katzmar, Mrs. Albert Vickers, Mrs. J. Edelman, Mrs. John Gilbert, and Mrs. Francis Rossbauer as chairwoman.

Half the price of the flag and pole was donated to the newly-formed Girl Scout troop. The attendance banner was awarded to Mr. Peters' room.

Election of officers took place, resulting thus: President, Mr. Peters; vice-president, Mrs. Rossbauer; secretary, Miss Early; treasurer, Miss Pyle. The program of the evening was presented by the Early Harmonica Revelers, a club of boys and girls, who play under the leadership of Miss May Early. The band played a chorus, "My Maryland." A duet of "Old Folks at Home" was played by Wayne Vandegrift and Leighton Davis. Robert Scarborough entertained with "Springtime in the Rockies." The chorus next played "Row, Row, Row" and "Are You Sleeping"; Jack Scott, solo, "When I Grow Too Old to Dream"; "Old Black Joe"; Wayne Vandegrift; Charles Mudie and William Curtis, duet, "Home on the Range"; "Walking in a Winter Wonderland," solo, Leighton Davis; choruses, "America" and "Taps."

Conduct Double Funeral For Morrisville Couple

A double funeral was held yesterday afternoon for James H. Ronan, Sr., and his wife, Mrs. Mary E. Kersey Ronan, of 43 Fairview avenue, Morrisville, who died within four days of each other after 56 years of married life.

Mr. Ronan, who was 76, died Friday of a heart attack. His wife, age 73, died at 1 a. m. yesterday, also of a heart attack, while plans for her husband's funeral were going forward.

The double requiem service was conducted yesterday at the couple's home in Morrisville, with interment in Greenwood Cemetery, Trenton. Many prominent persons attended the funeral and the honorary bearers included directors of the Bucks County Contributionship. Active bearers were Austin Snedeker, Carl A. Withers, J. Spencer Voorhees, Walter Pumpyea, Sylvan Fell and Harry E. Harker.

Peace Efforts Fail

Camden, N. J., May 22—With the second attempt at peace overtures ending in failure, 4,600 workers at the New York Shipbuilding Corporation plant here prepared today to continue their 12-day strike, "until the company is ready to abandon its stiff-necked bournism." Plans for a mass rally tonight to gain public support were made after a conference between company and union leaders deadlocked over wage increases, elimination of peace work, and a closed shop. Announcing failure of the conference, Thomas J. Gallagher, chairman of the union negotiations committee, said the "company would not even discuss our demands or make counter offers. The strike will go on until our demands are met."

YOUTH WHO SURVIVED BATTLE WITH WOMAN LEADER OF ARAB DESERT ARMY, AND 16 OTHER FIGHTS, IS DISCHARGED; TOO HARD FOR FRENCH FOREIGN LEGION

By Howard Berry
(I. N. S. Staff Correspondent)

LONDON, May 22—(INS)—Meet Legionnaire James Edward Hopkins, of London, a Briton who was too tough for the toughest army in the world—the French Foreign Legion.

The Foreign Legion, around which hundreds of romantic tales of love, adventure and daring have been woven, is renowned for its cruelty. They tame murderers, bandits, "he-men" and fugitives from all the corners of the globe, but Hopkins beat them at their own game.

He tamed the Legion! They discharged him as "Impossible to control by the Active Army."

For four years they tried to break his spirit, but Hopkins only laughed—and the terrible punishments meted out by the Legion has driven him mad.

Hopkins, short, slim and only 25 years old, his face tanned by the burning desert sun, has returned to England. He is living, out of work and nearly penniless, in a cheap London lodging-house, but he is confident he will yet win through.

"Yet," Hopkins said relating his experiences in the French Foreign Legion, "I'm not really tough. But I would die for justice. And they didn't give me justice in the Legion."

"I joined the Legion for adventure. As a boy I was thrilled by stories of the exploits of legionnaires, and, twenty-one and full of enthusiasm, I joined up and was sent to Sidi-Bel-Abbes."

"I was determined to become a good soldier, and the hard training and rigid discipline of the barrack square did not dismay me."

"My first year was creditable. I passed all the examinations, and was actually on the list for promotion to corporal when an incident occurred that was to begin three years of hell."

"I was left in temporary charge of the guard room, but as I was not the senior soldier there I was too shy to enforce my authority."

"Then the Colonel came into the barracks accompanied by his staff. Of course, the guard should have turned out, but I did not think it was my duty to order them out."

"The Colonel, however, thought differently. I was court-martialed and sentenced to a month's imprisonment for neglect of duty."

"This almost broke my heart. To be punished so severely after I had tried so hard to make good! That month in the cells changed me into a bitter and resentful outlaw. I became insolent. I laughed at their threats to break me."

"Go on," I snarled. "Do what the you like!"

"Perhaps," Hopkins continued, "you think I was foolish, but you have no idea what a Legion prison is like. Let me describe it for you."

"I marched there expecting the worst, but even then I was shocked. The sleeping quarters were terrible, and the men treated like pigs. After scrambling out of bed we had to dash to the parade ground, where we were given seven minutes to wash at a pump."

"Then we dashed back to parade, where, if our cleanliness did not satisfy the sergeant, we were called all sorts of filthy names. I used to be last on parade. I was struck, and immediately I hit back. For that I was knocked out."

ENDEAVOR TO ASCERTAIN STREET RESPONSIBILITY

Delegation Complains at Yardley Council Meeting of Main Thoroughfare

HALT RAILS REMOVAL

YARDLEY, May 22—At a special session of the Yardley borough council held in the council rooms on Monday evening a surprise delegation of a number of business men of Yardley was present with protests against the condition of the Yardley Borough Main street.

Endeavor was made to place the responsibility of the condition of the thoroughfare.

M. J. Hill, vice-president of the Delaware River Coach Company, former operator of the trolley company, asserts that since he is no longer operating the trolleys, the condition of the street is not his responsibility. The state highway department claims

ARRIVE ON VISIT HERE

Mr. and Mrs. Philip W. Souder and daughter Betty, LaGrange, Ill., arrived Sunday at the home of Mrs. Souder's parents, Mr. and Mrs. John H. Myers, Radcliffe street. Mr. Souder is on a business trip in Camden and will remain there during the week, joining his family in Bristol at the week-end.

POSTPONE SUPPER

The chicken supper at the Second Baptist Church, Race street, scheduled for May 23rd, has been postponed until Friday, May 31st.

"The cook-corporal would put the food for breakfast in the middle of a circle formed by marching prisoners. Then he would ask the guard if 'the pigs had eaten today.'"

"The guard would reply, 'no, my corporal.'"

"Did the pigs eat yesterday?"

"A little, my corporal."

"Upon which the cook would pretend to be in a rage, and would kick the food out of the utensils. The prisoners then had to scramble to get what they could to eat—and the devil take the hindmost."

"If a prisoner became too rebellious he would be led out to the fringe of the desert. He would be told to take one of three alternative routes. One led to the desert, where the prisoner would die of thirst; one to a cemetery, where he would die of starvation, and one which purported to lead to freedom."

"Men who are given this punishment generally end by going mad. I just sat down and told the guard that I would take neither of the roads. Of course the whole thing was a bluff—there was no chance of freedom."

THOUSANDS VISIT AT GETTYSBURG ANNUALLY

Battlefield Holds Unflagging Interest for Americans

GOVERNOR TO VISIT

This is the eighth of a series of articles designed to stir interest in Pennsylvania's many advantages to the tourist. Prepared under the direction of Warren VanDyke, Secretary of Highways, this series aims to outline briefly many of the places and scenes which are being recognized by travelers from other states as outstanding items in itineraries of the United States.

HARRISBURG, May 22—Gettysburg, scene of one of the world's decisive battles, holds an unflagging interest for Americans. Thousands of tourist parties visit the famous battlefield each year and on Memorial Day it is the custom for vast crowds to assemble in humble tribute to the brave men who died for an ideal.

This year on May 30, Governor George H. Earle will deliver the eulogy to the "Brave men, living and dead, who struggled here." State and national officials will join with Pennsylvania's Governor in paying homage to the blue and gray.

Every approach to Gettysburg is over roads which, in 1863, were filled with marching columns and wary scouts. From Chambersburg to the mountain pass at Cashtown an unbroken line of troops and trains filled the highway which was later to be named for the immortal Lincoln. These were the weary men in gray, who shortly before had marched up through the Valley of the Shenandoah.

A gray-clad corps held the road from Carlisle, now marked as Route 34. Others reconnoitered the Harrisburg road, marked today as U. S. 15. Unreliable reports sent another Confederate corps eastward over the Lincoln Highway to York, only to be hastily recalled for the bloody fray at Gettysburg.

All roads to the south of Gettysburg were occupied by men in blue, who were determined to form an iron ring about the Nation's Capitol, less than 80 miles away. Peaceful farmlands and fruitful orchards border the roads where Union cavalry patrols sought the men in gray. The Pennsylvania Capitol at Harrisburg was believed to be in danger and a volunteer home guard, hastily recruited, marched down the York road.

Of such importance in military history is the Gettysburg battle that army text-books of every nation include the minutest details. Student officers study the tide of the battle, follow the strategies and criticize the actions of the commanders. Every element of military tactics was employed by the opposing forces.

Gettysburg, is, indeed, a national shrine. Yet the beauty of its setting in the South Mountains makes it a tourist mecca for beauty's sake, alone.

Gettysburg presents an awe-inspiring vista to the onlooker from one of the five steel observation towers. The Pennsylvania Memorial Tower and the Forty-fourth New York Tower.

The battlefield contains 840 monuments constructed by states and organizations, five bronze equestrian statues, 29 bronze statues on pedestals, 27 bronze statues on monuments, 21 granite statues on monuments and 1,733 tablets and markers of various kinds.

Regiments of twenty northern states and twelve southern states were represented in the battle on this field and many of the veterans who fought at Gettysburg migrated to practically every state in the Union after the war. Consequently, citizens of every state in the Union have a more or less personal interest in the stirring events that took place upon the battlefield.

Three Dead; Four Injured

Indianapolis, Ind., May 22—Three men were dead and four lay in a critical condition today after two streaking cars were wrecked on the Indianapolis Speedway in qualifying trials for the 500-mile automobile classic. The dead were: W. H. Stubblefield, 27, veteran Los Angeles race driver; Leo Whitaker, his riding mechanic; and John Hannon, Norristown, Pa., eastern dirt track champion. Oscar Leevors, Indianapolis, Hannon's riding mechanic, was seriously injured when Hannon's car went out of control at the third turn while going 85 miles an hour. Stubblefield late yesterday had completed six of the ten laps of the 25-mile qualifying run when his car skidded on the southwest turn, leaping the retaining wall. The veteran pilot and Whitaker were tossed clear of the car and died on the way to the hospital.

Threaten General Strike

Philadelphia, May 22—A general strike of all workers on Federal Relief projects in five states was threatened here today if prevailing relief wages are replaced by a lower pay schedule under the government's new $4,000,000,000 work relief program.

Opinions Conflict

Harrisburg, May 22—Conflicting opinions on the advisability of enacting the Phillips bill creating a commission to regulate the anthracite mining industry were before the House Committee on Mines and Mining today. Louis C. Madeira, 3rd, executive director of the anthracite institute and Lt. Governor Thomas Kennedy, international secretary-treasurer of the United Mine Workers of America, opposed the measure which is supported by Charles Dorrance, an independent operator of Scranton. "Notwithstanding the good intentions of the bill, it is our judgment that it falls short of improving the problem on the scale which we think is necessary," Kennedy advised the committee at a hearing late yesterday.

Fined For Distributing Circulars Carelessly

Three men were taken to police headquarters yesterday afternoon after numerous complaints had been telephoned to the police, that they were carelessly distributing circulars through the sixth ward.

Upon receipt of the telephone messages an officer was assigned to investigate and he found circulars littering the streets and lawns. The men were summoned to appear before Justice of Peace James Guy.

The trio gave their names as Harry Grebley, R. D. 2; Joseph Pryor and Edward Grebley, both of Croydon. It was brought out that Harry Grebley was the one in charge of the distribution, so a fine of $10 and costs was imposed upon him by Justice Guy.

Residents complain daily about the littering of their premises with advertising matter and yesterday when this violation occurred they were quick to call in the police.

GERMANY ISSUES DRAFT CALL FOR ALL 18 TO 45

Both Men and Women, for Wartime Service in Trench,
Field, Home, Factory

CONSCRIPT IN OCTOBER

BERLIN, Germany, May 22—Germany today issued a call to arms and to the plow and machine, drafting every able-bodied man and woman between 18 and 45 for war time service in the trench, field, home or factory. At the same time European governments debated Adolf Hitler's plan for European peace and security.

At least one year's military service preceded by a period in the labor service was ordered for all men on a new conscription decree promulgated today. Others are "on call" for "designated service" in war time. The first conscript will probably be called up for one year beginning next October.

Meanwhile, Germany official circles regarded Hitler's two hour speech to the Reichstag as a comprehensive and detailed peace offer that now places the onus for its failure upon other European powers.

Germany, he said, would conclude no pacts involving military assistance but was open for treaties of non-aggression. Most concrete of his pledges aimed to placate Britain, was Hitler's statement of Germany's demand for a

SENTENCE ZELENIK TO "PEN;" 7 TO 14 YEARS

Judge Keller Says He Cannot Understand Actions of Educated Defendant

DRUNKEN DRIVERS

DOYLESTOWN, May 22—Not less than seven nor more than fourteen years in the Eastern State Penitentiary at hard labor and solitary confinement was the sentence imposed today by Judge Hiram H. Keller on Stanley Zelenik, 23, of Woxall, Montgomery county.

Zelenik, who robbed several road-stands and held up the Triangle Restaurant near Sellersville and the restaurant of George Houghton, Bethlehem Pike, pleaded guilty to charges of robbery, being armed with an offensive weapon, larceny, receiving stolen goods, aggravated assault and battery, and assault and battery.

The defendant had been in the Bucks county court on previous occasions, and once was committed to the reformatory. He served a term in Montgomery County Prison, being released from there last week.

"I cannot understand your case," Judge Keller said to Zelenik before pronouncing sentence. "You are a young man, good looking, and apparently with education, and yet you have not made good after you have been given several chances by this court. You are satisfied in continuing a life of crime, so I will have to put you in safe keeping."

George Leh, of Philadelphia, charged with driving an automobile after his license had been revoked, was sentenced to pay a fine of $200 and costs. Sentence was imposed by Judge Boyer.

Joseph Straka, of Gardenville, a carpenter, pleaded guilty today to a charge of driving an automobile while drunk on the Durham Road. He was arrested by Sergeant A. A. Disavague, of the Doylestown sub-station of State Police. Judge Boyer sentenced Straka to serve a sentence of not less than 30 days or more than two years in the Bucks County Prison, and pay the costs.

Captain Atkinson Quits National Guard Unit

DOYLESTOWN, May 22—After 26 years of service in Doylestown's National Guard Company, both in the ranks and as commanding officer, Captain Daniel G. Atkinson, 44, has resigned from the service and the resignation has been accepted by Governor George H. Earle.

For the past five years, Captain Atkinson, a veteran of the World War, has been getting things in readiness for retirement from National Guard service, it being his contention that the company should be in command of a younger man, and that 26 years' service in the National Guard was quite enough so far as he is concerned, because of the great amount of time that it takes from other business interests.

Captain Atkinson will be succeeded in command of Company G by Captain Walter A. Linn, of Souderton, a graduate of the class of 1924 at West Point and a member of the regimental staff of the 111th Infantry for the past seven years.

As a private in the ranks, Captain Atkinson enlisted in the National Guard 26 years ago, the year that he graduated from Doylestown High School. The outfit was then known as Company D, 111th Infantry. The armory in 1909, when Captain Atkinson enlisted, was then located in what is now the Doylestown Garage building on West Court street. The present armory was built in 1909 and occupied by the Company in January, 1910.

For the past 15 years the retiring commanding officer has been a Captain and during that time approximately 260 men have passed through the Company.

Entertain Members of Bucks County D. A. R.

Surrounded by a beautiful garden of irises, tulips and azalea, members of the Bucks County Chapter, D. A. R., were most pleasantly entertained on Monday at a luncheon given by Mrs. Charles Matthews and her daughter, Mrs. William Hunneman, in their home at Langhorne.

Following the luncheon the monthly meeting was held. It was resolved to favor the bill relating to the displaying of the flag on Federal, State and county public buildings and school houses. The chapter also adopted the ritual published by the national organization.

The delegates to the National Congress in April spoke of the constructive and worthwhile work accomplished in the schools for the poor mountaineers

Friends' ceremony was used, and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Styer led in prayer for the nuptials after the pianist played "O Promise Me." Miss Force was dressed in a white silk gown and wore a veil. She carried a bouquet of white gardenias.

A reception followed the wedding, 26 attending. Mr. and Mrs. Litchlighter will reside at the home of the bride.

Endeavor To Ascertain Street Responsibility

that it assumed no responsibility for the area of the trolley rails. The borough solicitor, Isaac J. VanArtsdalen, of Doylestown, was present, and suggested that a resolution be passed seeking an injunction to prohibit the removal of the rails. This was the outcome of a discussion regarding the removal of the rails by Frank Millner, who started early Monday morning to remove the rails, on South Main street, and he was stopped by Council until the responsibility of the street repairs can be ascertained. Council requested a deposit of $750 to the credit of the

The speech definitely paved the way for an early visit by Foreign Minister Pierre Laval of France to Berlin which may be the first concrete result of Germany's proposal.

Conciliation of Italy was attempted in his promise that Germany has no intention of interfering with the internal life of Austria. He assailed bolshevism as "international" and said no non-aggression pact could be completed with Lithuania until the "most primitive human rights of Germany and Memel were respected."

As you turn on the lights this evening, here is something you might bear in mind.

"In a moment this room will be flooded with light. But the electricity which will do that work has not yet been 'manufactured.' The great generators are now turning at their appointed speed, but the current that will make these lamps glow has not yet been created."

Then throw the switch and, presto, the lights are made to glow by electric energy that has sped to you over wires and through innumerable coils and other apparatus at the incredible rate of 186,000 miles a second.

It is the responsibility of this Company to make certain that whenever and wherever you want this magic force, it will be "manufactured" for you and delivered to you in the split fraction of a second.

PHILADELPHIA ELECTRIC COMPANY

A Pioneer in Voluntarily Establishing Low Rates for All Electric Service

Fifteen years ago there was nothing here," he remarked simply. "Absolutely nothing. Never got a penny from anybody. Don't owe anybody anything. True, we don't make any money now. Used to, but with prices down we just make ends meet. Still..."

He looked around at his creation. It was enough to justify his pride. This is the sort of man whom the Soviet Union would condemn to exile. He is the perfect Kulak. He is the sort of man the Baltic states have done their best to make the backbone of their economic structure.

In all these states the primary policy of the new government was to promote the small land-owner. It was the surest guarantee against Bolshevism. Great estates held the fattest land before the war and while half the peasantry possess no land ten percent or so of the population owned the country.

Because most of the great landowners were alien Russians, Germans, Poles, who had furthermore been regarded as the oppressors of the Estonians, Latvians and Lithuanians, very little compensation was given them for their lands. They were allowed to keep in some instances their manor house with a nucleus of land, in other cases small holdings not exceeding 200 to 400 acres.

Thus by a species of what the big landowners at any rate regarded as Bolshevism the new states protected themselves against real Bolshevism. Today there are few former big landowners in the Baltic states who would not prefer the Baltic form of expropriation to the Soviet form.

Thus, too, the Baltic states created a system of agriculture which the best expert opinion in Europe today regards as the most advantageous to all concerned. In Russia the foremost foreign authority on Soviet agriculture believes that the collective farm system will ultimately be more productive than the system of dwarf farms which existed before collectivization. But the evidence in his opinion goes to show that neither the collectives nor the dwarf farms can ever be as productive as the system of middle-sized farms run by the "rugged individualists."

THREE-RUN RALLY WINS GAME FOR HULMEVILLE

A three run rally in the final inning kept the Hulmeville A. A. winning streak intact last night on Reetz's field. Hulmeville, as the Bristol Hibernians bowed to the league-leaders of the Lower Bucks County League, 5-4.

The Hibernians enjoyed a 4-2 lead going into the final session and appeared well on the way to victory when the Hulmevilleites started their spurt. Devlin was due to bat but Manager Black decided to substitute Comly for him. Comly worked Lyzack for a pass. As it was the final game, Carlen was selected to run for Comly. Rockhill promptly dumped a hit to center. Henp could not do anything. Lyzack taking care of his fly. Bruce was the second out with a roller to Leigh. But Manager Black upset the works by planting a long double to right, scoring Carlen and Rockhill with the tying runs. Gotwald then sent Black over with the deciding tally on his hit to left.

HIBBS' STICK WORK IS CAUSE OF EDGELY'S WIN

Manager Fred Hibbs was the big sticker on the Newportville field last night as the Edgely Braves nosed out the Newportville A. A. club, 10-9, in a free hitting contest. Hibbs connected for a double and three singles and drove the winning runs across to clinch the contest for his team.

Unfortunately, it was the sixth straight reverse of the season for the Newportville team and the fifth contest they have dropped within a margin of two runs. The Newporters battled the Braves toe to toe and in the third with a three-run rally had deadlocked the count. They went into the lead the following session but Hibbs' blow in the fifth was their downfall.

Wants First Place

Mauri Rose

Mauri Rose, Dayton, O., flash, finished second in last year's 500-mile Memorial Day auto race at Indianapolis. He'll drive a new four-wheel drive car this year and hopes to lead the procession home.

We witnessed the International soccer game between the all-star team of the Scottish League and the German-American, champions of Philadelphia, at the Stadium on the old Sesqui-Centennial site last Saturday . . . and what a spectacle . . . It made one proud of his Scotch ancestry . . . day-kend.

Charlie Viet, of the third ward . . . who is quite a soccer fan, was kind enough to accompany us and explain the line points of the game . . . Charlie, as you know, is an enthusiastic rooter for the German lads of Tabor Road, and seldom misses a contest.

What surprised us most was the interest this sport can arouse when one has only witnessed a couple of games in his life . . . Action is fast from the moment the ball is kicked-off until the final whistle . . . and how those Scotch lads can manipulate that ball with their feet and head . . . They are not permitted to touch the sphere with their hands . . . excepting the goal-keeper.

We understand this sport attracts crowds of more than two hundred thousand persons at a game in Scotland and England. . . . Well, when you see the seriousness in which these sons of the old country take their soccer . . . you can readily understand the large attendance.

The twenty thousand spectators who were on hand to welcome their favorites on Saturday were treated to a thrilling contest that had every one yelling from the start, amid the shrill of the bag-pipes by a band of colorful kilts. . . . The local players put up a great fight against their more experienced foreign visitors and held them to a score of 3-0. . . . The Scotchmen, who are making a tour of this country and Canada, defeated a team composed of the stars of New England in New York, Sunday, by the score of 5 to 1. The bra' Scots sure know their "futba'."

TWO POPULAR WRESTLERS WILL MEET IN THE ARENA

TRENTON, May 22—Two of the most popular of wrestling's younger set, Ed (Don) George, New York, and Tom Alley, Australia, will grip and grapple in the feature bout of Johnny Ipp's weekly mat party at the Arena tonight.

Both have been fairly prominent in the local mat picture, neither having suffered defeat. The handsome George scored wins over Pat McClary and Bill Martin. Tom, with his vaunted surf-board hold, wrestled two 30-minute draws with Andy Rascher, finally beat Rascher and downed the new Hungarian sensation, Andreas Chikos. George is recognized as world's champion in New England and Canada, while Alley is champion in Australia, New Zealand and South Africa, where he made many appearances and defeated all his foes.

Both men are adept at every hold in the game and their tussle should be one of the most scientific and interesting engaged here this season. The match brings together two brilliant exponents of wrestling in the orthodox sense of the word and very seldom is either man guilty of "off-color" tactics.

Don, the former University of Michigan athlete, has two terrific draws with Jim Londos to his credit, plus victories over Strangler Lewis and Jim Browning. Alley has met all the top-notchers and always acquitted himself satisfactorily.

The supporting bouts will furnish the fans love. Pat Kelly, red-headed Memphis Irishman, tangles with the powerful Pole, Walter Podolak. A newcomer, Ed Meske, of Chicago, meets Jack Donovan and the popular Rube Wright faces rowdy John Katan of Canada.

WILLIAM GILL WINS IN CROSS-COUNTRY RACE

LANGHORNE, May 22—William Gill, Hulmeville, star senior athlete of Langhorne-Middletown high school, won the annual cross-country race of 2.2 miles in 12 minutes 56.5 seconds, today. He sprinted viciously the last 500 feet to gain only a six-inch lead on John Stark who paced him almost the entire course. Sydney Buckman ran a close third place in the race.

Of over a score of starters only 13 finished. Morris Rowe came fourth, followed by William Mitchell. Four men came in almost as ties and only a part of a foot determined the order of each. Excitement ran high as Edward Hewitt gained sixth place, William Newbold took seventh, Ralph Paul, eighth; and Henry Miller, ninth. Hewitt, Newbold, Miller, and the tenth man, Walter Jacobs, are all Freshmen this year. Track coach Garvin Pepper commented very favorably on his plebe material.
